EOSC-Pillar Ambassadors Programme

Are you working at a research performing organisation and interested in Open Science? Become an Ambassador for the European Open Science Cloud (EOSC) - and show researchers, students and decision-makers at your institution how to benefit from EOSC and how to get involved! Find out more and download free EOSC-Pillar promotional materials to share with your network.

Third TRIPLE ThatCamp on Sustainability in Open Science

With a focus on the relationship between sustainability and open science, ThatCamp welcomes researchers to join this "unconference" with no fixed agenda at the University of Zadar, Croatia on 13 September. Register for your free place now.

Green events - assessing and reducing the environmental impact of your training

RITrainPlus presents this virtual knowledge exchange workshop for events and training programmers who want to reduce the environmental impact of events and develop more sustainable practices. Places are limited so register now for the workshop on 16 September. CESSDA is participating in the RITrainPlus and eRImote project, co-organising the workshop and welcomes this cross-collaboration.

Register for new eRImote workshops

The eRImote project is a new project exploring solutions for providing digital and remote services across RI domains. Transferable practices will improve the accessibility and resilience of RI infrastructures. Workshop #1 on 21–22 September will focus on remote training for RI users and staff and user interactions and networking in remote/digital service provision. Workshop #2 is on 24–25 October will be about data security and remote operations of RI services. Register now!

EOSC Future Domain Ambassadors appointed

Congratulations to Pedro Mendes, Francis P. Crawley, Geta Mitrea, Anne Cambon-Thomsen and Allyson Lister, who have all been named as EOSC Domain Ambassadors. Their remit is to build stronger links between RDA, EOSC Future and the research communities they represent. RDA has issued a second call for domain ambassadors - find out more below.
